

Jessica Hand
Krause
P351/T576
8 March 2016

Final Project Proposal

SoulPancake/PostSecret Mash-up

I continue to be enchanted by the good work that SoulPancake produces. I really want to show that I can make good content that matters. This is how I feel that I can share with and teach others about what is important in life. Being kind. At the same time, I love PostSecret, an ongoing community arts project that encourages people to share their secrets. These two projects may not seem like they are similar, but I believe that they are. There is something as beautiful and enchanting about the honesty of PostSecret just as there is beauty in SoulPancake. Both institutions allow for a platform for people to come together and better themselves.

One way that I would like to potentially blend these two groups is by sifting through a group of secrets and giving voice to them. I would like to give voice to submitted secrets in a similar way that PostSecret has conducted its live events.